RECRUITS WANTED.

Recruiting office from Camp Travis, Texas, at the court house. Tents in yard 1st Lt. J. L. Brown, 35 U. S. Infantry, and three enlisted men here on recruiting service for two weeks. Recruiting for all branches of the service. Particular attention invited to opportunities in motor transport corps. Many vacancies in Southern Department Q. M. C.

American citizens, who contemplate colonization of the Trevino ranch across the Rio Grande from Del Rio and Eagle Pass and the establishment there of a town to be known as Braunfels, and who have been told that they could do nothing unless they obey fully the immigration laws of Mexico, are prepared to meet all legal requirements of that government, says Emil Locke of San Antonio in an article of the San Antonio Daily Light. Mr. Locke is a leader in the colonization plan. The prospective colonists were informed that the Mexican laws require colonists to become Mexican citizens before owning land there and that they renounce the right of appeal to the United States government in the event of damages to their property. The immigrants have accepted these terms, the colonization project is going forward in complete understanding with the Mexican government and 200 farmers from the San Antonio section have already purchased farms out of the Trevino ranch. Payment has been made and the money deposited in San Antonio banks. It is said that probably 250 Belgians from Texas will join the colony. Opposition to existing prohibition laws in America is one of the factors which led to the colonization plan in Mexico.

Rebellious Democrats of Texas are organizing a "Peoples Democratic Party" at a conference in Fort Worth. Former Senator Joseph W. Bailey and other well known Democrats called the meeting for the purpose of reforming the Democratic party in Texas and bringing it back to the traditions of Jefferson and Jackson. The rights of the State should be guarded against usurpation by the federal government as exemplified in the recent prohibition and equal suffrage amendments to the constitution. If the meeting decides to form a new organization another convention will be held later, a platform will be formulated and adopted, and a complete state ticket will be placed in the field at the next election.

Our School.

The following is self explanatory: July 25, 1919.

Supt. J. W. Peeler,
Hondo, Texas.

Dear Mr. Peeler:

It gives me pleasure to inform you that the committee on affiliation has granted the following units of credit to the Hondo High School:

Algebra 2 units
Plane Geometry 1 unit
Trigonometry 1 unit
English 1 additional unit
Spanish 1 unit
American History 1 unit

The work submitted in Spanish was good, but did not show sufficient strength to justify the granting of a 3rd unit.

Yours very truly,

M. J. POPPLEWEED,
Supervisor of High Schools.

[The above units added to the six the school already had gives a total of 13 units toward affiliation.]

Hondo 9; Lytle 8.

Quite an interesting game of base ball was played at de Montel Park Thursday afternoon between the Hondo Regulars and the Lytle team, the contest resulting in a victory for the local aggregation by a score of 9 to 8.

"Pete" Beal and Rolly Bless did the battery work for the local team, while Tate, Thrower and House discharged a similar service for the visitors.

We are authorized to state that another game has been staged at de Montel Park for next Thursday afternoon but we are not advised as to who will be the opposing team.

Go out and root for the home boys and incidentally assist them financially. There is some little expense in maintaining a base ball club and the boys should not be expected to provide the necessary funds out of their own means.

Rieber-Vollmering.

Mr. Edgar S. Rieber and Miss Emma Vollmering were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nolt of Alice, Texas, on Aug. 4, 1919. Father Buckley of Falfurrias, Tex., officiated.

Miss Vollmering is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Vollmering of Orange Grove, Texas, and one of the leading young women of that place. She has lived a considerable part of her life in Medina County.

Mr. Rieber is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Rieber of Tarpley. Previous to his entry to Uncle Sam's army he was, for three years, a teacher of the Upper Hondo school. He served in the army about two years and saw service in France and Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Rieber will make their home at Upper Hondo.

The Anvil Herald wishes the young couple a long and happy married life.

Senator Lodge, chairman of foreign relation committee, declared in a Senate speech that the proposed league of nations would not create a league of peace, but an alliance embracing many provisions for war. The covenant in its present form would kill the Monroe Doctrine, nullify any possibility of withdrawal from membership, impair the sovereign power of deciding domestic questions, and plunge the United States into every controversy and conflict on the face of the globe.

NO ANARCHY IN FORD'S VIEWS

BISHOP WILLIAMS TESTIFIES IN
THE $1,000,000 LIBEL CASE AGAINST TRIBUNE.

WON'T TELL "HALF-TRUTHS"

Noted Divine Says If Manufacturer's
Theories Are Anarchistic Then
He Is In Danger Of Becoming Anarchist Himself.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—The Chicago Tribune rested its defense in the $1,000,000 libel suit which Henry Ford has brought against it after spending seven weeks and two days in attempting to prove that it was justified in calling the manufacturer an "anarchist." The 12th week of the trial opened with Ford counsel offering rebuttal testimony against The Tribune's defense.

The first witness for Mr. Ford was the Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, D. D., Episcopal bishop of Michigan, who appeared on the stand in rebuttal of the testimony of Prof. J. S. Reeves, professor of political science in the University of Michigan who had previously testified that Henry Ford's views were distinctly anarchistic.

Bishop Williams said that Mr. Ford's views were far from being anarchistic and were, in fact, Christian, common and often commonplace.

The Bishop refused to be led by Tribune counsel in his answers and insisted on telling "the whole truth." Asked whether he thought Henry Ford's declaration that all armies should be disbanded, all navies destroyed and all material of war converted into commercial implements was anarchistic, the witness answered:

"I could quote a half-dozen passages from Scripture that express almost that idea. I should say that the main theme of these statements by Henry Ford are distinctly Christian, commonly preached in Christian pulpits and that if they were lived up to this would be a pretty good Christian world."

"Bishop," asked Tribune counsel, "do you believe that Mr. Ford has quoted, 'patriotism is the last resort of a scoundrel'?"

"I have often said so," responded the witness. "I have often seen it so."

Concerning the doctrine of non-resistance Bishop Williams declared he did not believe in such a theory but that many Christians did.

"It is the belief of anarchists," said Tribune counsel.

"Yes and the belief of Christians," "Will you be good enough to answer the question," retorted counsel.

"Anarchists say that and Christians say that. I am afraid I am going to tell the whole truth."

"Now Bishop—"

"I am going to tell the whole truth."

"You are telling something I have not asked you to tell."

"You have not asked me for the whole truth. I have to follow my conscience. I am a simple man."

"I am afraid," continued the Bishop, "that if this is anarchy I agree with it mostly."

Ford counsel then called William A. Dunning, professor of history and political philosophy in Columbia University, to testify concerning Mr. Ford's theories and utterances.

"When Henry Ford," said counsel, "said that we should stop talking about one factory, one state and one country and begin to talk about the world, was he preaching the doctrine of anarchy?"

"No that is the general thought of cosmopolitanism—human inclusiveness; it has permeated all speculation on political philosophy ever since there was such a philosophy."

"Is there anything peculiarly anarchistic about it?"

"No."

"Is it in any way essential to anarchism?"

"No."

"Mr. Ford also said that he believed humanity could make mistakes but could do nothing worse; he said he believed everything tended toward the good, and that even the terrible world war would result in blessing to the world. Is there anything anarchistic about those ideas?"

"They were commonplace before an anarchist was ever heard of. The idea that man is naturally good is the basis of Plato's morals. It has permeated moral philosophy ever since."

Prof. Dunning was then asked to run through the articles and interviews sponsored by Henry Ford and indicate the portions which would convince a critical examiner that Mr. Ford was not an anarchist.

The witness promptly pointed out numerous references to the government and to the use of the ballot which showed, he said, that Mr. Ford believed in the orderly processes of government and therefore could not be an anarchist. In no writing or interview, he said, could he find a single indication that Mr. Ford was an anarchist, either in the common or philosophical conception of that term.

GAVE NAME TO NEW ENGLAND

Result of Capt. Smith's Exploration of Shores of "North Virginia" in the Year 1614.

Capt. John Smith, famous for his romantic career, particularly the Pocahontas episode, is generally associated with Virginia, but he was also the first to discover the beauties of the southwestern half of the Maine coast and the first to draw a map of it, an exchange recalls. In 1614 he explored the shores of what was then known as North Virginia, but which he called New England, a name that has stuck, as have many others given by him.

In "A Description of New England," printed in London in 1616, Smith wrote "I have seen at least forty several habitations on the Sea Coast and found about 25 excellent good harbors, . . . and more than 200 isles. From Penobscot to Sagadahock this Coast is all Mountainous and Isles of huge Rocks, but overgrown with all sorts of good woodes for building houses, boats, barks or shippes; with an incredible abundance of most sorts of fish, much fowle and sundry sorts of good fruites for man's use . . . The Salvages compare their store in the Sea to the haire of their heads; and surely there are an incredible abundance upon this Coast. . . . The most Northern part I was at was the Bay of Penobscot, which is East and West, North and South, more than ten leagues."

The northeastern half of the Maine coast was put on the map by Champlain. Ten years before Smith's voyage he had visited Nova Scotia, discovered and named the St. John river, and cruised as far south as the mouth of the Penobscot, which he, too, entered.

Where Wives Are Cheap.

What is the market in wives? It is said that among the Ainu the price of one is a bear ham. The Ainu figure varies from four to eight oxen, according to the competition for the particular bride.

A score of cartridges buys a wife in Uganda, and the Australian black gives the weight of his better half in butter, while the Tartars in Turkestan get as many wives as they want at the rate of a box of matches each.

In Wales wives are given away—they are paid for afterward, mostly in weekly installments.—Cardiff Western Mail.

COULD NOT HOLD ARMADILLO

Writer Admits Underestimating the Strength of Little Animal He Was Trying to Capture.

When he was a small boy, W. H. Hudson, the author of "Far Away and Long Ago," came to grief while he was attempting single-handed to capture an armadillo. One day, he says, I was standing on the mound at the side of a moat, some 40 yards from where men were at work, when an armadillo bolted from his earth and, running to the very spot where I was, standing, began vigorously digging to bury himself in the soil.

Neither men nor dogs had seen him, and I at once determined to capture him unaided by anyone. I imagined that it would prove to be a very easy task. Accordingly, laid hold of his black, bone-cased tail with both hands and began tugging to get him off the ground, but could not move him. He went on digging furiously, and getting deeper and deeper into the earth, and I soon found that instead of my pulling him out he was pulling me in after him. It hurt my pride to think that an animal no larger than a cat was beating me in a trial of strength, and I held on more tenaciously than ever and tugged and strained more violently, until—not to lose him—I had to go down flat on the ground.

But it was all for nothing. First my hands and then my aching arms were carried down into the earth, and I was forced to release my hold and get up to rid myself of the mold that he had been throwing up into my face and all over my head, neck and shoulders.—Youth's Companion.

EPIGRAM IS NOT GREELEY'S

Great Editor Long Wrongly Credited With Advice, "Go West, Young Man, Go West."

The famous epigram "Go West, young man, go West," so commonly attributed to the pen of Horace Greeley, was not written first by that venerable editor of the New York Tribune, but by John L. B. Soule, editor of the Terre Haute Express. In 1851 Richard Thompson, afterward secretary of the navy, urged Soule to go west and grow up with the country, and praised the editor's talents as a writer. He wagered a barrel of flour that Soule could write an article that would be attributed to Horace Greeley.

The result of the suggestion was a column editorial about the West's opportunities for young men. It declared that Horace Greeley could never have given a young man better advice than contained in the words, "Go West, young man." Although stated merely as Soule thought Greeley might have put it, newspapers all over the country began to credit Greeley with the epigram. So widespread did the quotation become that Greeley's paper reprinted the editorial from the Express, with the following footnote:

"The expression of this sentiment has been attributed to the editor of the Tribune erroneously. But so fully does he concur in the advice it gives that he indorses most heartily the epigrammatic advice of the Terre Haute Express, and joins in saying, 'Go West, young man, go West.'"

How Do You Meet Emergency?

Your treatment of life's accidents is a test of your ingenuity. Things that can be done by rule can be relegated to the clerk. Things that demand the exceptional must be handled by the man who is master of affairs. When the accidental comes there is no time for preparing to meet it. It's an emergency that demands immediate action. If the note is not taken truly it brings discord. When life's notes out of the usual scale are not promptly and properly met they bring dissatisfaction and calamity. It's the mark of the master to be able to make the usual contribution to the whole of life. And best of all the man with the right spirit enjoys the challenge the accidental gives in life. It not only affords change but it suggests stages of development by which he can estimate growth.

Man Tested by Trials.

A man's dependability can be measured by the way he takes accidentals. The great mass of men can go along serenely when everything goes according to custom. But the appearance of the accidental throws them out of balance. The same thing is true of life. So many fellows lose their heads when they need them most. Trouble in any quarter seems to flash the red flag before them. The unusual unnerves them. Turmoil in the camp becomes contagious and they bolt when they should be the most steady. It takes trials to test the man. Any one who goes wild with the appearance of the accidental can never be trusted to meet life's real problems.

Doing.

When you have a thing to do, you will do it right in proportion to your love of right. But do the right, and you will love the right; for by doing it you will see it in a measure as it is, and no one can see the truth as it is without loving it. The more you talk about what is right, or even about the doing of it, the more you are in danger of exemplifying how loosely theory may be allied to practice. Talk without action saps the very will. Something you have to do is waiting undone all the time, and getting more and more undone. The only refuge is to do.—George Macdonald.

Various Modes of Greeting.

Savages rarely osculate. The salutations of the Mongols, Malays, Polynesians, the Eskimos and Laplanders consist chiefly of smelling each other and rubbing noses; while in Tibet, instead of greeting by an adhesive touch, the mode of salutation consists of extending the tongue, but this is done simply because the custom of the country does not permit of any physical contact. North American Indians do not kiss excepting in the presence of death, when they profusely fondle and kiss the feet of their beloved departed ones. The native Australian and Fiji islanders salute with a hug like a bear. The Celtic race is not especially demonstrative and rarely kiss in public unless it is in greeting after a long absence, then men very rarely kiss each other and the women are not over lavish with their manifestations of devotion.

Margaret Fuller's Friends.

Went to see Hawthorne; it was very pleasant, the poplars whisper so suddenly their pleasant tale; and everywhere the view is so peaceful. The house within I like, all their things are so expressive of themselves and mix so gracefully with the old furniture. H. walked home with me; we stopped some time to look at the moon. . . . He expressed, as he always does, many fine perceptions, I like to hear the lightest thing he says. Waldo and I have good meetings, though we stop at all our old places. But my expectations are moderate now; it is his beautiful presence that I prize far more than our intercourse. He has been reading me his new poems, and the other day he asked me how I liked the "little subjective twinkle all through."—Margaret Fuller's Journal.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

Fritz Weber was here from Utopia one day this week. He says conditions are good in the hill country with every one so busy they can hardly take time to draw their breath. He says his oats crop only averaged a little better than 70 bushels to the acre, but that one of his neighbors who had 100 acres in oats threshed out 100 bushels for each acre planted. Mr. Weber had a few ears of corn from his crop in his auto. The car was a good one but it would not take many ears like the ones he had to overload anything on wheels. He remarked that a year ago one of his neighbors complained that last year he was dodging the poor house; now he is worrying lest he will receive a call from the income tax collector. Life is always full of worries.

To George Leinweber the Anvil Herald is indebted for some splendid specimens of pears from the orchard of Gus Richarz at Con Can. These pears are another illustration of the adaptability of the soil and climate of West Texas for the growing of this variety of fruit. We are not advised as to the name of these pears, but they were of enormous size and excellent quality. In conversation Mr. Leinweber mentioned the size of some figs he had seen in his western itinerary, but as it has never been the purpose of this paper to place any man's reputation for truthfulness in jeopardy we refrain from commenting on this part of his remarks. He says this part of Uncle Sam's homestead suffered less from the incessant rains of the past two months than our neighbors further west. They have suffered the loss of thousands upon thousands of bushels of grain through rotting in the fields.

Music is Essential

Without music, modern life would be impossible. Thomas A. Edison realized this when he invented his Three Million Dollar Phonograph—

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

He also realized the imperfection of the ordinary phonograph and the talking machine. He knew that a phonograph that could not be distinguished from the human voice could be designed—and he designed it.

Music critics cannot differentiate between the human voice and the world's most wonderful sound-reproducing instrument, The New Edison.

Is it Possible to Legislate Life and Brains?

Swift & Company is primarily an organization of men, not a collection of brick, mortar, and machinery.

Packing Plants, their equipment and usefulness are only outward symbols of the intelligence, life-long experience, and right purpose of the men who compose the organization and of those who direct it.

Will not Government direction of the packing industry, now contemplated by Congress, take over the empty husk of physical property and equipment and sacrifice the initiative, experience and devotion of these men, which is the life itself of the industry?

What legislation, what political adroitness could replace such life and brains, once driven out?

The Enterprise League.

The Enterprise Home and School League met Aug. 10, 1919, at the usual hour. The meeting was called to order by the president. After the business meeting an exceedingly interesting program was rendered, consisting of recitations, readings, special songs, and talks by members. The league adjourned only to become engaged in a number of "lively and sporting" games that were "new and original." These created much hilarity among all.

We are glad of interest manifested by people of Dunlay and Biry—come again and bring your friends. A united effort now on part of our patrons and faculty is all that is necessary to make our organization a success. Let everyone co-operate and do his duty. We cordially invite everyone to meet with us Sept. 7, 1919, and assure you a pleasant time. The following program will be rendered:

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off. When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

Andrew Carnegie.

Andrew Carnegie, the steel king and philanthropist, died at Lenox, Mass., Monday morning after an illness of only three days. He leaves his widow and one daughter, who was married to Ensign Roswell Miller of New York. She is 22 years old. Mr. Carnegie was in his 84th year of age when he died. Altogether he endowed 300 municipal libraries in the United States. He was an active member of numerous philosophical, civic and scientific bodies. Moore than $350,000,000 he has given away for the benefit of the public.

One of his latest and greatest ideals was the abolition of war. He gave $10,000,000 toward an International Peace Fund and built the Peace Palace at the Hague. Hundreds of churches and institutes were equipped with pipe organs by him. His small gifts to colleges amounted to some $20,000,000. At the age of 12 years he came with his poor parents to this country from Scotland. Father and son found work in a cotton factory in Allegheny City, Pa. The boy earned $1.20 a week, but soon was promoted. Then he was a telegraph operator, earning $125 a month. He was 16 years old when his father died. He went into speculation and manufacturing, bought an interest in the Pullman Company for $200 and sold it later for $10,000.

When the Civil War broke out, at the age of 26, he was appointed as director of government railways and telegraphs. Later he invested in oil and cleared in one year $1,000,000 in cash dividends upon a capital of $40,000. Iron and steel was the real magnet that attracted him. Iron bridges were in demand. He formed the Keystone Bridge Works and built a bridge over the Ohio River. Iron rails had to be given up for steel and Carnegie soon became the world's leading producer of steel and a multi-millionaire himself. In 1901 the U. S. Steel Corporation, headed by J. P. Morgan, paid $420,000,000 in their five per cent bonds for the Carnegie Company's holdings, but Carnegie later declared that he made a bad deal this time as Morgan would have paid 100 million dollars more if that value would have been placed on the property.

In 1888 he married Louise Whitefield of New York, 20 years his junior. His daughter, Margaret, was born in 1897.

Farmer Unable To Help His Boys.

Kettner Was So Run Down He Couldn't Work—Gains
28 Pounds on Tanlac.

"You can't blame me for talking so much about Tanlac; for it has not only added twenty-eight pounds to my weight, but has completely overcome my troubles," said O. A. Kettner, a well known and prosperous farmer who lives on Route No. 1, Downs, Ill. the other day.

"I just thought I was doomed to suffer the rest of my days," continued Mr. Kettner, "and I guess that would have been the case if I had not gotten hold of this Tanlac. You see, I had been in bad health for about twelve years, and I failed completely to find anything that would do me any good. My stomach was in such bad condition that I would just suffer agonies every time I ate anything. My food would sour on my stomach and I would be all bloated up with gas for hours at a time. My kidney's were out of order all the time, too, and I would have the worst sort of pains in the small of my back. Then rheumatism struck me, and from that time on I had all the suffering that was coming to me. Why, I got so bad off that I couldn't even help the boys do little jobs around the place. I just went from bad to worse, and I finally made up my mind that I would just have to give up trying to run my farm.

"Well, I heard about this Tanlac then, and I bought a couple of bottles, and began taking it. Now, the first two bottles didn't seem to do me any good at all, and I was about ready to drop Tanlac, but I figured that my case was one of long standing, and that I hadn't given the medicine a good showing, so I bought one more bottle. That third bottle hit the spot, and in little or no time I was picking up right along, and from that time on I improved as fast as any man you ever say and I am as hale and hearty as I ever was in my life. I never have a sign of rheumatism now, and my kidney's seem to be in first class condition. I don't believe I ever had a better appetite, and I get away with three square meals every day, and I am never bothered with indigestion or any other kind of stomach troubles now. I can now get out in the field and do as much work in a day as any man on my farm. Yes sir, Tanlac was a Godsend to me, and I just feel like I want the world to know about this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Joseph Mechler, Hondo, says: "I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I know they are good. I was taken with a severe backache and had sort of a dull pain in my kidneys day and night. When I would stoop over I could hardly raise up again. My kidneys didn't act right and I had to get up nights on this account. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills so I used them and was helped from the first. Two boxes of Doan's made my back as strong as iron and made my kidneys act like clock work."

An Old Fault Finder.

An irritable and fault finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good natured. When troubled with indigestion or constipation take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels.

The food and drug commissioner at Austin is in trouble about what to do with a number of volumes of the chemist's library owned by the state of Texas. These volumes contain innumerable formulas for making various kinds of intoxicating liquors and the production of alcohol. The Dean law, which will be in effect Oct. 21, says the possession of formulas for making intoxicating liquors is a penitentiary offense.

In San Antonio early Sunday morning thieves smashed a display window at Levytsky's Jewelry Store, 304 East Houston street, and got away with jewelry in value of $700. A Great Remedy.

The merits of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy are well known and appreciated, but there is occasionally a man who had no acquaintance with them and should read the following by F. H. Dear, a hotel man at Dupuyer, Mont. "Four years ago I used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy with such wonderful results that I have since recommended it to my friends."

Bela Kun, the bolshevik leader, escaped with a fortune of 5,000,000 crowns from Hungary. He held his office only a few months. Believing in 'dividing up' he did very well.

What Is Best For Indigestion?

Mr. A. Robinson of Drumboin, Ontario, has been troubled for years with indigestion, and recommends Chamberlain's Tablets as "the best medicine I ever used." "I troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial. They are certain to prove beneficial. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents."

CALLED HER FAMILY TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, But Now She Is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardui For Her Recovery.

Royce City, Tex.—Mrs. Mary Killman, of this place, says; "After the birth of my little girl...my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed. We called the doctor. He treated me...but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable...I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot... I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardui I would try it... commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardui. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side got less... I continued right on taking the Cardui until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life... I have never had any trouble from that day to this."

Do you suffer from headache, backache, pains in sides, or other discomforts, each month? Or do you feel weak, nervous and fagged-out? If so, give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial.
